Written Answers

Sarah Wollaston (Totnes, Conservative)

To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he is taking to prevent further seabird deaths as a result of polyisobutene pollution resulting from both legal and illegal discharges at sea.

Stephen Hammond (Wimbledon, Conservative)

Once the full reasons for the incidents are established, the UK will, if appropriate, formally approach International Maritime Organisation to discuss the discharge requirements for products carried on chemical tankers.

They Work For You

Hansard