Meeting with the Housing Minister

Thank you to everyone who came up to Westminster from the South Hams today to speak to Kris Hopkins the Housing Minister, about the difficulties that are facing young people finding accommodation. This was an opportunity to highlight the gap between rising house prices in the South Hams and low pay, which gives many youngsters no hope of owning a home, or even affording market rents. There was a call for land to be made available where they can build low-cost eco-homes.
