The RNLI plays an important role in this constituency. I was pleased to meet with their Director of Operations George Rawlinson to discuss their priorities including the new National Drowning Prevention Strategy. Local authorities and coastguards continue to work closely to reduce risk and to provide education on the importance of enjoying the sea safely and responsibly. You can test your knowledge on what to do in an emergency on the Respect the Water website.