Westminster Hall Debate.

Sarah Wollaston (Totnes, Conservative) Click here to see Sarah Live

I congratulate my hon. Friend Stuart Andrew on initiating this important debate. Does Fiona Mactaggart agree that although it is wonderful that she had such rapid access to treatment, such access to diagnosis is not uniformly available throughout the country? My experience is that it is difficult for general practitioners to gain rapid access to ultrasound scans, which was a crucial factor in the hon. Lady’s diagnosis. Equally, access to CA 125 measurements, although included in the NICE draft guidelines, which is welcome, is not uniformly available to GPs throughout the country.

They Work For You

Hansard